

CONSULTANT

Stefan Krötz

Stefan Krötz is a Senior Manager and trainer at CEVEYGROUP. He holds a degree in business administration and has been a trainer and consultant since 1999. Among other things, he conducts business management training for executives and supports the digital transformation of human resources development.

His focus is on behavioral training in the areas of leadership, sales, communication, team development and conflict management, as well as change management, individual coaching and the assessment of potential.

"As a trainer and consultant, I am always curious about the diverse issues in companies and enjoy working with people. Trainings and consultations are particularly successful for me when new perspectives and jointly developed solutions generate motivation for implementation and learning."
